Re: Letter of Recommendation for Christopher Odom

To whom it may concern:

I've known Chris Odom on a personal and professional basis for over ten years. In that time, he has consistently managed to impress me. As a writer and director and I've had the pleasure to work with him fairly often and the results are always positive.

His experience in independent production has made him exceptionally valuable because he's had to master so many areas. When he shares his knowledge and skills is when he shines brightest.

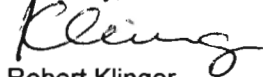

Wherever he goes, Chris brings with him forward-thinking leadership and an uncanny ability to maintain forward movement, regardless of conditions -- all the while maintaining a personable and professional demeanor.

He's ideally suited for production and for teaching production (including pre and post). His ability to make the complex easily understandable is useful in any arena and his proficiency with various hardware and software enables him to create training tools, be it on the page or a new-media device.

Christopher Odom is that rare commodity - a big-picture thinker with granular production knowledge. Based on his well-rounded expertise, as well as his pleasant and engaging personality, I highly recommend Mr. Odom.

I'd be happy to provide more information. Email is quickest (klinging2001@hotmail.com) but feel free to contact me via your preferred means.

Sincerely,

Robert Klinger
